

PROPHETIC
The report that Archbishop Ireland, of St. Paul, Minn., is to be made a cardinal is still premature. It seems to have been revived in consequence of having been chosen as the agent of the Vatican to make representations at Washington regarding the Philippine islands. Undoubtedly he was selected for that mission because of his known influence with President McKinley.

The success he seems to have scored in securing promise of protection and equal rights for the diocese of Manila under American control makes it natural to infer that he will be rewarded. The cardinalate would be the next step in promotion, and rumors of him in line for it.

Some people have surmised, however, that he is to be designated as the head of the church in Manila, for which position he would be especially fitted should the United States retain the islands, on direct their affairs. Other people have guessed that he will be given the archbishopric of San Juan, where the church is to be reconstructed on American lines. But it is probable that the new archbishop for these seas will be French, not American. In any case it will be impossible to do anything about promotion before November, as no consistory will take place until then.

At the present moment the Jesuits would oppose Archbishop Ireland's elevation to the cardinalate, and so would Spain, as he has appeared unfriendly toward her, but he is almost certain to become a cardinal later.

HOW THEY VIEW AMERICA.

Opinions Held by England and Germany Regarding Ends and Aims of This Country.

First Assistant Postmaster Heath, who has just returned from Europe, talked rather freely. He said: "England seems to regard the United States as a country reaching out not only for territory but for power through alliances with other nations with a view to enlarging our commerce. They regard us as an ambitious, grasping, domineering, and the most progressive country on earth. We have made a great reputation throughout all Europe by the way in which we not only can but will fight, and how speedily we can put ourselves on a war footing. Europe now expects the United States to have a first-class navy and a large standing army. That is accepted abroad as our future plan. Europe also expects that we will hold all the countries we have acquired."

"Prominent Englishmen believe we ought to build the Nicaragua canal, and would like to enter into a partnership with this government in this enterprise. All Europe expects us to hold the Philippines except Germany. The Germans favor a joint protection, though they are willing that we should boss the job, and they will be disappointed if we shall not do it. They seem thoroughly convinced that our war for the Cubans was only a cover to our designs to acquire territory, and they give us no credit for good faith in our professions. There is an abundance of evidence of Germany's jealousy of us."

INTERNAL REVENUE.
